BRIGHAM CITY BITS.

A Breezy Budget From the North Country.

BRIGHAM CITY WOOLLEN MILLS.

Montpelier Matters—The Water Question—Ed Burgey is Satisfied—An Unfortunate Tramp Crushed.

Hot weather has come again. Times are about at their average in business circles.

All of our farmers are enthusiastic over the prospects for an abundant harvest this season.

E. A. Hot, recently returned from the Pen., is as busy as ever at his old business quarters, much to the pleasure of his numerous friends and patrons.

The first black bootblack to black Brigham made his opening yell of "Want a shine?" yesterday.

Mrs. Sarah Snow, who for six or eight months has been confined to her bed with sickness, is now occasionally seen on the streets, much to the joy of her numerous friends.

Our dairymen are now doing an immense business in strawberries. Hundreds of boxes leave Brigham every day for their various outside destinations.

B. M. Young, Esq., who has been suffering for the last few weeks from a severe attack of pneumonia, is up and around again.

Brigham city, having learned a lesson in its experience with a mass of late, now supports a regular night watchman.

A few days ago, a procession of twelve or fifteen wagons loaded down with corn and humanity passed through Brigham traveling north.

Our Brigham city woolen mills, at one time the most flourishing in Utah here, has, for some reason or other, been allowed to remain idle or partially so for years. It, however, will resume operations on a small scale, beginning some time in June.

The first "out" of the hot weather season occurred on Decoration Day, when nearly the entire force of our Brigham City Co-op. decided to test the condition of our mountain atmosphere at that season and resolved on an out.

The party, consisting of Miss Augusta Grady, Mr. and Mrs. George Grady, Miss Florence Snow and Mr. M. W. Snow, started bright and early for their mountain destination. A ride of seven miles brought them to a charming spot where cold water, fresh air, good shade and beautiful scenery were in abundance. A most enjoyable time was spent, the party returning in the evening quite elated over their refreshing treat.

Decoration Day received its due attention from the citizens of Brigham. At about 9 o'clock a. m. men from all parts of town began reading their way toward the cemetery, where, 720 hours later over a thousand people had gathered to decorate the graves and do honor to their respected dead. Flowers, wreaths and garlands were seen in every direction beautifying the graves. At 12 m. an adjournment was taken, and at 2 p. m. services were held in the tabernacle, where President Edgar Clawson, Charles Kelley and others addressed the assembly on topics appropriate for the occasion.

Mrs. Helen Nisley, who has long been popularly known and whose numerous labors have been appreciated by hundreds here, has for many months been confined to a bed of sickness at Homeville, where she is under the care of her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Hot, sister, Mrs. E. A. Hot, of Homeville.

Kansas, is now in Brigham making arrangements for her removal to that place where more facilities for treatment can be had.

An early year-old child of Samuel Carter died on Sunday last, and was buried on Decoration Day. Mr. Carter was not aware of sickness in his family, he being one of the sheep shearers who left town over three weeks ago. He received word, however, of the untimely death of his child, and, hurrying home, arrived just in time to attend the funeral.

The wool season is rapidly approaching. Shearers are busy on the range at the various shearing corrals, and an occasional mover puts in an appearance.

We are very sorry and at the same time ashamed to confess that Brigham city has not boasted of being entirely free from that disagreeable specimen of humanity who loves to see the barriers of peace and union destroyed here in Utah and works to that end. The Rev. N. L. Gillip, in a rabid communication to the Tribune a few days ago, in which he protested against the Mormons sharing in the celebration of Decoration Day, and which was up by making a frantic appeal to the G. A. R. against the Mormons, demonstrated himself as being one of those unscrupulous class whose occasional walks are being in the way of the attention of a more considerate and fair-minded public, which at too much expressed in the "Mormonism" of the advancement and development of our numerous resources.

BRIGHAM CITY, June 1, 1889.

Montpelier Matters.

The water question is beginning to be a matter of "serious consequence" in that little town. Not less than twenty dams have been built in the four river between Evanston and this place, a summer, each one completely obstructing the main channel, and were it not for the seven or eight dams along the stream less dams would be required. Hereafter the overflow has been sufficient to make the valley the valley. There will be a great falling off in the hay supply this fall and should a heavy or hard winter follow, stock will have to be driven to other parts more favored. The late storms have made the range most excellent—better than in many years past. A great many immigrants, both by train and wagon, are passing through a valley from Kansas, going to Washington territory, while a few are returning—thus very close the old saying: "The human family is on the move."

An item appeared in THE HERALD the other day, credited to an excursion, that Ed Burgey had fallen into a hole in a certain contract near Boise. Ed says the article was a little off in his reckoning. There are no holes on Burgey and he is satisfied with the result.

Montpelier is picking up; there are many signs of local improvements here. A good roller mill is much needed in this valley and this is the most favored spot, and the one looking a mill here of the latest improved kind, will reap a good thing.

Parkies just in from Star valley, report things flourishing if not a favored locality.

The manufacture of cheese is a great source of revenue in this country.

An unfortunate tramp had his foot crushed here Monday. Dr. Hoover amputated the foot and the poor fellow will not tramp for some time to come. There is a continuous stream of the tramp fraternity passing over the road every day; they are becoming a menace to the country.

The sporting element of Montpelier is making a race track just north of the town and horse talk is the general conversation.

A large number of Indians from the Pocatello and Fort Hall reservations are moving this way on a big hunt. They will locate on Smith's Fork, near Cokeville, and kill "bucks" and elk and also cast their lines for the fishy tribe that abound in that beautiful stream.

John W. Stover, of Cokeville, has erected a large store near the depot, and is displaying a fine stock of merchandise.

Cattle and horses are looking well upon the ranges.

Alfred Osmond, of Bloomington, has just returned from Ann Harbor, Michigan, where he has been studying law. During Mr. Osmond's absence his young wife died, leaving a tender babe. The next day after the father's return, the little one went to his mother. Alf has the deepest sympathy of his many friends.

Lost.—I don't know where I can't tell when I don't see how something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz: a good appetite.

Punch.—Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was everlastingly trying it this season. It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable Consumptive. Begun taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jessie Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at A. C. Smith & Co.'s drug store.

Congressman Simonds Complimented.

That famous patent lawyer, William E. Simonds, who defeated the witty Bob Vance at the polls in the Hartford district last fall, tells a pretty good story on himself. He has in his employ, as cook, an old colored woman who was formerly a slave. She is very religious, and is continually quoting things from the Scriptures. The old woman has a very excellent voice, and sings her old plantation songs in the inimitable daisy way.

One Sunday morning she was singing away while preparing breakfast, and Mrs. Simonds arose and opened their room door that they might hear her better. When they went down to breakfast, Mrs. Simonds remarked: "Auntie, my husband and myself have been enjoying your singing very much."

The old lady looked pleased, and saw an excellent opportunity of quoting Scripture, so she replied:

"Law, Misy, but I didn't know that I was castin' pearls befo' swine."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Wanted Opportunities.

A correspondent writes: "Do you ever engage men to write poems for your paper? We have not for some years had a regular, permanent poet attached to the staff. We have, however, made a standing offer to print unobjectionable poems at the rate of fifty cents per line, nonpareil. The fact that but little advantage has been taken of this offer leads us to believe that there is not much hope of building up a poetic literature in this country."—Toronto Globe.

He Took the Hint.

"Yes, Jennie," said the young lady's beau as he clasped her small hand in his and gazed lovingly into her melting eyes, "although I'm in comfortable circumstances now, I've seen the day when I've been hard pressed."

"Indeed?" the said.

"Yes, indeed, pretty hard pressed."

"I don't remember," she said with a shy look, "of ever having been hard pressed."

She was a moment after.—Boston Courier.

A Rising Ball Player.

"How did you come out, Johnny, with your game with the Hustlers?"

Johnny (sipping of a boy's ball game)—They beat us, 12-10 to 6.

"Umph! You haven't won a game this year, have you?"

"No, and I just want to win myself, too."

"Don't get discouraged, my boy. Why, if you keep on this way the first thing you know you will be as big a man as Amos!"—Chicago Herald.

Better Hurry Up.

Mr. Highliffe (looking up from the paper).—Well, well! Wonders will never cease! They're got so now that they can photograph in colors.

Mrs. Highliffe (glancing at his nose).—I think, my dear, you'd better get your picture taken before the old process is abandoned.—New York Weekly.

In Its Last Throes.

"How is your toothache getting along?"

"Bad as ever."

"I thought you said the dentist was going to kill the nerve?"

"No, he did; but it dies hard."—Chicago Herald.

A Summer Romance.

Smiley Barker—Ah, here comes Miss Cooper, she's here. I waited on her once.

Priest (sacredly)—You! Where?
